

Toddlerhood

ARTICLE

Following your child's growth

Your child is developing so fast! He is starting to discover his new world, thanks to your loving care and his rapidly awakening senses. Your child's growth happens in key stages, from his newly found curiosity in the first few months to his first words and steps from his 12th month.

1 min

to read

▪ By Danial Ahmad , Author

Oct 13, 2015

Your child is developing so fast! He is starting to discover his new world, thanks to your loving care and his rapidly awakening senses. Your child's growth happens in key stages, from his newly found curiosity in the first few months to his first words and steps from his 12th month. Take a look at his journey ahead. You and your child have so much to look forward to!

A child's growth rate is very impressive. It is even more spectacular in the first few months after birth. Use these weight and height curves to follow your child's development.